What Is Slime?

Slime is a type of non-Newtonian fluid. This means that it doesn't behave like a liquid or a solid. Instead, it has properties of both liquids and solids.

When you apply a force to slime, it will flow like a liquid. But when you stop applying force, it will return to its solid form.

How To Make Slime

There are many different ways to make slime. The most common method is to use a combination of glue, water, and borax.

To make slime using this method, you will need the following ingredients:

- 1 cup of clear glue
- 1/2 cup of water
- 1/2 teaspoon of borax powder

Instructions:

1. In a large bowl, combine the glue and water. Stir until well combined. 2. Add the borax powder to the glue mixture. Stir until the slime begins to form. 3. Knead the slime with your hands until it is smooth and elastic.

Troubleshooting Slime Problems

If you are having trouble making slime, there are a few things you can try:

- Make sure you are using the correct ingredients. The most common mistake is using the wrong type of glue. You need to use clear glue, not white glue.
- Make sure you are adding the borax powder slowly. If you add too much borax powder, the slime will become too stiff.
- Knead the slime thoroughly. This will help to distribute the borax powder evenly throughout the slime.
