In this gripping and unforgettable book, award-winning journalist David Finkel captures the true stories of America's most decorated warriors in Iraq and Afghanistan. Through their firsthand accounts, we experience the raw emotions, the intense camaraderie, and the profound sacrifices of these brave men and women.

From the streets of Baghdad to the mountains of Helmand province, Finkel takes us on a harrowing journey into the heart of combat. We witness the horrors of war firsthand, but we also see the resilience, the courage, and the humanity of the soldiers who fight it. These are the stories of the men and women who have been awarded the Medal of Honor, the nation's highest military decoration. They are stories of valor, sacrifice, and the indomitable spirit of the American soldier.

A Must-Read for Anyone Who Wants to Understand the True Cost of War

Firsthand Accounts of Combat is a must-read for anyone who wants to understand the true cost of war. Through the eyes of these decorated warriors, we see the devastating impact of combat on both the individual and the nation. We learn about the physical and psychological wounds that soldiers carry home from war, and we witness the challenges they face in reintegrating into civilian life.

But Firsthand Accounts of Combat is also a story of hope. It is a story of the resilience of the human spirit, and the power of love and friendship to overcome adversity. These are the stories of the men and women who have fought and sacrificed for our country, and they are stories that deserve to be heard.
